A Note From the Executive Director . . .

"Mission Statement." It sounds so grim. A cattle call for commandos, zealots, and desk jockeys. Or just joyless sex. But as we skip into our fifteenth year, Etruscan’s mission to nurture a dialogue among genres feels more like dance than dolor. Twirl, and join Arcadia Road, a poetic trilogy about life on earth with roots deep as Hesiod. Moonwalk, and hear American Anger, a burning excoriation of the psyche beneath the empire. We’ve got Cannot Stay, a travel book that explores travel itself; YOU., a screed that would make Bukowski blush; Crave: Sojourn of a Hungry Soul, a memoir of struggle woven in dream language; and The Other Sky, a vibrant shadow-dance between an artist and poet. This isn’t just dialogue, it’s intimate whisper and raucous shout, discovery and exultation. It’s music. Hey universe, wanna dance?

Founders
Philip Brady, Executive Director; Robert Mooney, Executive Editor; Steve Oristaglio, Business Adviser
Advisers
Nin Andrews, Robert Carioscia, Bonnie Culver, J. Michael Lennon, Robert Lunday, Mark Van Tilburg
Staff
Bill Schneider, Managing Editor; Jim Cihlar, Consultant and Copy Editor; Rae Henaghan, Nathan Summerlin, Hillary Transue, Editorial Associates
Designers
Susan Leonard, Mike Ress, Julianne Popovec, Laurie Powers, Carey Schwartzburt
Interns
Ashleigh Crispell, Brandon Gubitosa, Johanna James, Nichole Kanney, April Line, Vanessa Peterson, Patricia Sharp, Amanda Thomas

Cover painting: “The Well” by Aron Wiesenfeld; Catalog design: Ashleigh Crispell
YOU.

Poetry

JOSEPH P. WOOD

Available July 2015

With Catullus, Bukowski, Whitman, and St. Teresa of Avila as guides, YOU. is the ultimate relationship poem: husband and wife, father and daughter, addict and rehab, self and god. YOU. explores how an “I” and “You” are subjectively constructed, whether through grotesquery and violence, sexuality and gender, or faith and disbelief.

“Joseph Wood is a photographer of the American Word, as well as a totally unboring poet saxophoning syllables and provoking vivid images of sharp winter stars and anemic light.”

--Mark Spitzer, author of Return of the Gar

JOSEPH P. WOOD is the author of four books and five chapbooks of poetry, which most recently include Broken Cage and Fold of the Map.

6 x 9 | 110 pp | US $16.00 | 978-0-9897532-3-4

Arcadia Road: A Trilogy

Poetry

THORPE MOECKEL

Available September 2015

This trilogy of long poems is narrative, lyrical and meditative. Moeckel’s language is as rich, lush and organic as its soil. Arcadia Road is audacious, down-to-earth; strange yet intimate, offering nuanced meditations on sustainability, permaculture, and the circle of life: a visceral, intimate, and cosmic excursion into techniques, textures, and implications of rural, modern homestead living in Virginia’s Blue Ridge.

“The sustained vision that binds together the three long poems of this book is remarkable ... Best of all, the voice of these poems is filled with affection and joy ... And there is a spirit here that comes from the privilege of living in this world by being bound to it: it is a kind of freedom.”

--Maurice Manning, author of Bucolics

THORPE MOECKEL teaches at Hollins University and lives with his family near Buchanan, VA.

6 x 9 | 208 pp | US $17.00 | 978-0-9897532-3-5

Cannot Stay: Essays on Travel

Travel Essays

KEVIN ODERMAN

Available June 2015

Kevin Oderman proves himself as one of our most interesting and original travel writers. In these dozen essays, he journeys from the Baltics to Lahore, Pakistan, from the arid Turkish and Greek coastlines to the tropical humidity of Southeast Asia, from familiar tourist haunts like Florence to the spooky otherworld of Corsica, from Bali to Nepal, and even, incredibly, on imagined voyages to Mali and Mexico. His prose style is both exacting and lyrical, visually alive and philosophically astute. “Cannot Stay fuses remarkable places to remarkable observations to remarkable language without ceasing, demonstrating that travel, at its best, is a contemplative tool as valid as any church, yogic exercise, or zafu.”

--David James Duncan, author of The River Why and The Brothers K

KEVIN ODERMAN lives in Morgantown, West Virginia with his wife, Sara Prichard.

6 x 9 | 238 pp | US $15.00 | 978-0-9897532-8-9

The Other Sky

Poetry

BRUCE BOND/ARON WIESENFELD

Available April 2015

In dialogue between poetry and visual art, The Other Sky probes the depths of the psyche: childhood roots, reveries, tensions. We find visual art and poems that respond, not as mere descriptions, but as speculative and emotional explorations, incantations, forces of resistance even, driven by strengths particular to poems. This book is unique by virtue of the power, virtuosity, and refinement of its images and the ways the poems work closely with them to create a symbiosis that is larger than either medium alone.

“This book is one of the finest of its kind.”

--Stephen Dunn

BRUCE BOND (poet) is the author of nine previous books of poetry: Choir of the Wells; A Terralogy (Etruscan, 2013), The Visible (LSU, 2012), Pail (Etruscan, 2009), and Blind Rain (LSU, 2008). Artist ARON WIESENFELD’S drawings and paintings have been in five solo shows, including a retrospective at the Bakersfield Museum of Art in 2010. His work has been in numerous group exhibitions in the U.S. and Europe.

7.25 x 9 | 104 pp | US $30.00 | 978-0-9897532-6-5
Crave: Sojourn of a Hungry Soul

Memoir

Laurie Jean Cannady

Available October 2015

Crave is a coming-of-age memoir that chronicles a young girl’s journey through abuse and impoverishment. The effective narration descends into the depths of personal and sexual degradation, perpetual hunger for food, safety and survival. While moving through gritty exposés of poverty, abuse, and starvation, Crave renders a continuing search for sustenance that simply will not die.

“(Cannady’s) description is precise, her narration suspenseful, in a story that evokes the 1980s. Through inner strength, she survived, despite the dangers of her environment . . . Presumably, there is more to come, on military...”

—John H. Wilson, editor, Evelyn Waugh Studies

Laurie Jean Cannady resides in central Pennsylvania with visual artist Chico Cannady and their three children.

6 x 9 | 384 pp | US $19.00 | 978-0-9897532-9-6

American Anger: An Evidentiary

Poetry

H. L. Hix

Available January 2016

American Anger reads history and foreign policy through psychological and philosophical anger theories. This collection of poetry brings to light evidence of the anger at work in American civil life. By reflecting America back onto itself, these poems speak to the demographics that have been engaged by the Occupy movement, the anger at work in American civil life. By reflecting America back onto itself, these poems speak to the demographics that have been engaged by the Occupy movement.

“Hix has written the most important poetic sequences published by an American poet during the last several decades.”

—David Caplan, contributing editor, Pléiades

H. L. Hix, author of twenty-seven books, lives with the poet, Kate Northrop, in the mountain west, in an 1880’s railroad house, writing in a studio that was once a barn.

6 x 9 | 215 pp | US $19.00 | 978-0-9897532-4-1

COMPLETE BACKLIST
The Burning House
Paul Lisicky

The Burning House finds its narrator at his most vulnerable, and explores what it means to be a good man amidst chaos.

Fiction, 126 pages, trade paper
$14.95 (978-0-9745995-6-4)

The Casanova Chronicles
Myrna Stone

In this book of voices, speakers resurrected from the deeper past and the dead chafe against the circumstances of love, sex, loss, and longing.

Poetry, 72 pages, trade paper
$17.95 (978-0-9819687-5-9)

The Confessions of Doc Williams and Other Poems
William Heyen

The “urgency and authenticitry” and the “plain directness” of Heyen’s voice ring true in this collection, Heyen’s eighteenth volume of poetry.

Poetry, 74 pages, trade paper
$15.95 (978-0-9745995-5-7)

Coronology
Claire Bateman

Through a variety of questions both overt and embedded, the poems in this collection explore the inexplicable too-muchness/not-enoughness of imaginative experience.

Poetry, 71 pages, trade paper
$17.95 (978-0-9819687-3-5)

Crow Man
Tom Bailey

These eleven quintessentially American stories fully demonstrate our unstinting capacity for love and loss.

Fiction, 179 pages, hardcover
$22.95 (978-0-9718228-8-7)

Drift Ice
Jennifer Atkinson

The poems in Drift Ice address the myth of a once pristine wilderness, the indifferent, ever-changing nature of Nature, and our human place in it.

Poetry, 81 pages, trade paper
$16.95 (978-0-9797450-8-9)

Fast Animal
Tim Seibles

A lyrical, hypnotic narrative that attempts to historicize the political events of recent years with the personal struggles of its protagonists.

Poetry, 240 pages, hardcover
$17.00 (978-0-9718228-4-9)

First Fire, Then Birds Obsessions 1985–2010
H. L. Hix

First Fire, Then Birds is H. L. Hix’s version of a “selected poems,” presented not simply as a chronological accumulation but as a synoptic and stenographic vision of a new whole.

Poetry, 240 pages, hardcover
$27.95 (978-0-9819687-4-0)

The Football Corporations
William Heyen

This uncompromising and authoritative collection powers its way into a post-catastrophe setting of dirty bombs in stadiums, tortured athletes, corporate domination, and cynicism on a global level.

Poetry, 80 pp, trade paper
$14.00 (978-0-9832944-5-0)

The Gambler’s Nephew
Jack Matthews

The Gambler’s Nephew presents a world of abolitionist passion, murder, and old-fashioned cussedness. Here is a world as richly confused as our own—and as alive as living can get.

Fiction, 270 pages, trade paper
$15.95 (978-0-9819687-7-3)

The Disappearance of Seth
Kazim Ali

A lyrical, hypnotic narrative that attempts to historicize the political events of recent years with the personal struggles of its protagonists.

Fiction, 197 pages, trade paper
$16.95 (978-0-9797450-6-3)

The Fugitive Self
New and Selected Poems
John Wheatcroft

A tribute to a distinguished career spanning fifty years in American letters. Meditative, whimsical, and hard-hitting, it illuminates the cost of American expansion.

Poetry, 218 pages, trade paper
$18.95 (978-0-9797450-9-4)

First Fire, Then Birds Obsessions 1985–2010
H. L. Hix

First Fire, Then Birds is H. L. Hix’s version of a “selected poems,” presented not simply as a chronological accumulation but as a synoptic and stenographic vision of a new whole.

Poetry, 240 pages, hardcover
$27.95 (978-0-9819687-4-0)

The Football Corporations
William Heyen

This uncompromising and authoritative collection powers its way into a post-catastrophe setting of dirty bombs in stadiums, tortured athletes, corporate domination, and cynicism on a global level.

Poetry, 80 pp, trade paper
$14.00 (978-0-9832944-5-0)

Free Concert
New and Selected Poems
Milton Kessler

Kessler left behind new work that celebrates the life and work of a gifted poet of original voice, presenting work from each of his books together with his new poems.

Poetry, 125 pages, trade paper
$17.00 (978-0-9718228-6-4)

The Fugitive Self
New and Selected Poems
John Wheatcroft

A tribute to a distinguished career spanning fifty years in American letters. Meditative, whimsical, and hard-hitting, it illuminates the cost of American expansion.

Poetry, 218 pages, trade paper
$18.95 (978-0-9797450-9-4)

The Confessions of Doc Williams and Other Poems
William Heyen

The “urgency and authenticitry” and the “plain directness” of Heyen’s voice ring true in this collection, Heyen’s eighteenth volume of poetry.

Poetry, 74 pages, trade paper
$15.95 (978-0-9745995-5-7)
God Bless
A Political/Poetic Discourse
H. L. Hix
In poems at once playful and grave, H. L. Hix pits excerpts from the speeches of George W. Bush against arguments from Osama bin Laden in a poetic dialogue.
Poetry, 169 pages, trade paper
$19.95 (978-0-9745995-7-1)

Incident Light
H. L. Hix
His lyric poetry invites emotional connection to artist Petra Soesemann who embraces a newly discovered life, one made “instantly mythical” by a startling revelation.
Poetry, 73 pages, trade paper
$17.95 (978-0-9745995-1-9)

Legible Heavens
H. L. Hix
Legible Heavens continues H. L. Hix’s ongoing inquiry into what the most personal and intimate forms of experience reveal about our most cosmic and universal concerns, and vice versa.
Poetry, 89 pages, trade paper
$16.95 (978-0-9745995-0-2)

Help Wanted: Female
Sara Pritchard
This collection of short stories tells the tale of women needing and offering help in all forms, as their lives interconnect as do all.
Fiction, 188 pages, trade paper
US $15.00, CAN $16.50 (978-0-9886922-4-4)
Ebook $9.99 (978-0-9886922-6-8)

Lies Will Take You Somewhere
Sheila Schwartz
In this novel, a middle-class Jewish family journeys through infidelity, murder, and suicide. Weaving together nuanced meditations, this remarkable book provides insight into faith’s ability to divide, to heal, and to forgive.
Fiction, 387 pages, trade paper
$16.95 (978-0-9797450-4-1)

Parallel Lives
Michael Lind
Lind’s range of experience that goes beyond the purely academic or literary and into the realm of domestic and foreign policy is reflected in this collection.
Poetry, 95 pages, trade paper
$16.00 (978-0-9745995-8-8)

I’m here to learn to dream in your language
H. L. Hix
Hix extends his ongoing inquiry into spiritual and secular ecstasy in lyric sequences that record a lover’s dreams and a dreamer’s loves.
Poetry, 103 pages, trade paper
US $17.00, CAN $18.50 (978-0-9886922-1-3)
Ebook $15.00 (978-0-9883946-7-7)

Lines of Inquiry
H. L. Hix
In verse essays, letters, and interviews, H. L. Hix’s lines of inquiry ponder philosophic questions distilling answers with an insight intrinsic to a poetic heart.
Literary Collections, 131 pages, trade paper
$17.00 (978-0-9732944-5-5)

Peal
Bruce Bond
In Peal the reader is led to discover a sustained exploration of mortality and its embodiment in the consolations of beauty as the poet shapes language for the powers of renewal, faith, and the imagination.
Poetry, 68 pages, trade paper
$17.95 (978-0-9819687-6-6)

Quick Kills
Lynn Lurie
Quick Kills chronicles the desperate longing to belong as well as the effects of neglect, familial absence, and the nature of secrets. The young female narrator’s disjointed escapes after the agree to be the subject of an older man’s photographs.
Fiction, 135 pages, trade paper
US $16.00, CAN $17.50 (978-0-9886922-8-2)

Saint Joe’s Passion
J.D. Schaffensberger
The poems of Saint Joe’s Passion recount the lonely, lecherous life of Joseph Jahstone, painting the portrait of a man who was never quite able to open himself up to genuine love and intimacy.
Poetry, 62 pages, trade paper
$16.95 (978-0-9745995-3-4)

Scything Grace
Sean Thomas Dougherty
Through the still industrial Midwest, Dougherty offers us the stories he has lived and collected of men and women still going on, even if unsure.
Poetry, 88 pages, trade paper
$16.00 (978-0-9886922-6-0)

Naboomkara
Peter Grandbois
Naboomkara opens an onticic space of wonder, one that exists both within the natural world and within our own minds, a place outside preconceived notions of reality and identity, a place where we are free to re-imagine ourselves.
Fiction, 161 pages, trade paper
$16.95 (978-0-9819687-6-6)

No Hurry
Michael Blumenthal
No Hurry is a book of poems for the aging in body but youthful in spirit, for those interested in continuing to ask most meaningful questions as they head “downhill.”
Poetry, 125 pages, trade paper
$16.00 (978-0-9832944-7-4)

Peal
Bruce Bond
Peal is a book of poems for the aging in body but youthful in spirit, for those interested in continuing to ask most meaningful questions as they head “downhill.”
Poetry, 125 pages, trade paper
$16.00 (978-0-9832944-7-4)

The Greatest Jewish-American Lover in Hungarian History
Michael Blumenthal
Blumenthal draws a humorous and heartrending portrait of expatriate life in an increasingly connected and globalized world.
Fiction, 236 pages, trade paper
US $15.00, CAN $16.50 (978-0-9886922-4-4)
Ebook $9.99 (978-0-9886922-6-8)

Incident Light
H. L. Hix
Hix’s lyric poetry invites emotional connection to artist Petra Soesemann who embraces a newly discovered life, one made “instantly mythical” by a startling revelation.
Poetry, 73 pages, trade paper
$17.95 (978-0-9745995-1-9)

Help Wanted: Female
Sara Pritchard
This collection of short stories tells the tale of women needing and offering help in all forms, as their lives interconnect as do all.
Fiction, 188 pages, trade paper
US $15.00, CAN $16.50 (978-0-9886922-4-4)
Ebook $9.99 (978-0-9886922-6-8)
September 11, 2001
American Writers Respond
Edited by William Heyen
In September 11, 2001, American Writers Respond, more than 125 fiction writers, poets, and essayists are seized in ways that often surprise themselves.

Legacy Citation, 417 pages, handsome
$19.00 (978-0-9745995-4-0)

---

The Shyster’s Daughter
Paula Priamos
This searing, detective noir memoir paints a vivid portrait of a Greek American family caught up in the scandal-plagued, drug-addicted, culture of California in the late 1980s.

Memoir, 250 pp, trade paper
$16.00 (978-0-982944-3-6)
EBook $9.99 (978-0-982944-3-9)

---

Synergos
Selected Poems
Roberto Manzano
These compendious, impassioned poems, registering the bizarre turns of the late twentieth century, represent the first English translation of the most prominent poet.

Poetry, 219 pages, trade paper
$18.95 (978-0-9791967-1-0)

---

So Late, So Soon
New and Selected Poems
Carol Moldaw
Out of acutely observed, deeply felt particulars, Carol Moldaw constructs poetry of imaginative daring that illuminates and transforms the life within us all.

Poetry, 158 pages, trade paper
$18.95 (978-0-981967-2-8)

---

The Shyster’s Daughter

The Widening
Carol Moldaw
By turns picturesque, dark, and edgy erotic, The Widening is a poetic novel, presenting a portrait of a young woman’s volatile mix of passivity and wildness.

Poetry, 114 pages, trade paper
$17.95 (978-0-9819687-1-1)

---

Venison
Therese McCorckel
The process of a family working up a deer in their shed and then kitchen serves as both focus and departure for this book-length poem. At stake are no less than the origins and mysteries of flesh and touch—food.

Poetry, 66 pages, trade paper
$17.95 (978-0-981967-1-1)

---

What We Ask of Flesh
Bernice L. Bingham
Through biblical re-tellings, narratives, and lyric poems, this young African-American poet examines and heals wounds of flesh and spirit.

Poetry, 72 pages, trade paper
$14.00 (978-0-9839346-2-2)

---

Zarathustra Must Die
Dorian Alexander
In Zarathustra Must Die, sex, drugs, and rock ‘n’ roll meet Nietzsche’s concept of eternal recurrence in a wild exploration of the nature of time and its relationship to our existence.

Fiction, 106 pages, trade paper
$11.00 (978-0-9886922-3-7)

---

Synergos

Synergos
I go into a classroom late at night, and I put one poem on the desk. I begin thinking about these poems as a collection. And then it is finished so far—when you feel that there’s enough here to get to the thing that demanded an audience, that shouted so promising ends up being discarded, and you realize that it was just a trigger. So, for me the process is primarily one of patience and focus, listening as carefully as possible and then letting the parts come together. There’s a certain point, for me at least, where the thing that drove the poem into being makes itself known. That’s what I wait for. That’s how most of the poems I write come into being.

Do you have to do anything to check that process of going away and coming back to a poem? To keep yourself producing and moving forward?

At this stage in my life, I have so many drafts of different things that if I’m not creating a new poem, there’s always a draft to re-examine. I’m rarely faced with deadlines as a poet. It’s a great luxury, but I usually get to work on a poem as long as I need to. I sometimes follow by several lines, and then the poem starts to take shape. Once you have a sense of the whole poem, then you begin to revise and refine, trying to get to what I call the essential news of the poem. You have to get to the thing that demanded an audience, that shouted inside you. That can take anywhere from a few weeks to a few months or even years—if it’s a poem that’s longer and more complex. Sometimes you end up working through layers and layers of language, and the opening line that felt so promising ends up being discarded, and you realize that it was just a trigger. So, for me the process is primarily one of patience and focus, listening as carefully as possible and not settling for what seems pretty good. There’s a certain point, for me at least, where the thing that drove the poem into being makes itself known. That’s what I wait for. That’s how most of the poems I write come into being.

How do you know when a collection is complete? Do you sometimes see a poem sticking out that you know is not going to be part of the collection?

Yes. Before I finished Fast Animal, I did a series of four very long persona poems in the voices of Frederick Douglass, John Brown, Frederick Douglass’s wife, and Douglass’s lover. They were each about five pages long. I did a lot of research to create what I hope was a convincing look at these historical figures, but it was very clear when I laid the poems out that they were not going to fit in Fast Animal. I would love to have them in a collection for a larger audience, but I think what I’m going to end up doing is publishing them as a chapbook, so that those poems will exist by themselves as a separate collection, because I don’t think they’ll fit in the next book, either. So there are poems that you know very quickly are not part of a collection. Even if you love a poem, if it doesn’t fit the flow of a collection, it has to be put aside.

How do you ever have the opposite experience? Feeling a gap, as if there’s a missing poem?

If I do, I’ll go back and continue to write poems. If I’m putting together the chronology, and I feel there’s something missing I’ll just put the poems back in my notebook and keep writing. With Fast Animal, for example, I thought I had finished the book, and then I was in an airport and a line came to me; it hit me perfectly. I started writing and realized this poem would be another award!
OUTREACH PROGRAM

The Etruscan Press Educational Outreach Program continues to pair acclaimed authors with underserved students in area high schools, working to increase the literacy of students and offering a general appreciation for the literary arts.

The program goals include the following:

- Expand cultural and literary awareness throughout Northeast Ohio and Northeast Pennsylvania
- Demonstrate a love of literature to young people
- Promote intercultural acceptance and understanding
- Prepare underserved students for success in college
- Plant Little Free Libraries, which aim to bring Youngstown and Wilkes-Barre communities together through music and literature
- Continue to build alliances with community business partners to promote literacy, the love of reading, and enrich local neighborhoods

SMALL PRESS. BIG OPPORTUNITY.

Interested in publishing? Want to see what working for a small press is all about? We may have just the opportunity for you. Etruscan Press offers a variety of internships to help you acquire valuable skills and credentials while learning the publishing world from the inside.

DESKTOP DESIGN
Design covers and internal text.

SOCIAL MEDIA
Research new networking opportunities, market through social media.

MARKETING
Work with authors to promote individual titles, arrange readings and book signings, interact with universities and libraries, research marketing niches, and work with bookstores and other potential venues for author appearances.

COMMUNITY OUTREACH
Explore opportunities to bring Etruscan books and authors to classrooms and other learning sites and develop accompanying educational materials.

GRANT AND PROMOTIONAL WRITING
Research new funding sources and help write grants to support new projects. Work on publication releases, as well as promotional copy for new books, website, and other venues.

WEBSITE DEVELOPMENT
Take on a variety of projects to enhance Etruscan’s virtual presence.

FOR MORE INFORMATION, OR TO REQUEST OUR INTERNSHIP BROCHURE, EMAIL US AT BOOKS@ETRUSCANPRESS.ORG WITH “INTERNSHIP INFORMATION” IN THE SUBJECT LINE.
Bonnie Friedman, a Bronx native and University of North Texas creative writing professor, reflects on her life through a series of deeply contemplative, sometimes heart-rending essays in her latest book, Surrendering Oz. This collection of essays, while largely intended as a means to share Friedman’s introspective thoughts on poignant moments in her life, is also something of a coming of age story. In Surrendering Oz, the reader witnesses Friedman’s growth as a person through the acceptance of the validity of her own life experiences.

“I was amazed the first time she [Dorothy] gets sent home by the carnie man who tells her that Auntie Em is collapsing on the bed.” Friedman began to understand the lesson of this story: Dorothy should not leave home. She is given the message that if she leaves, those she loves will suffer. This is in direct contrast to stories with male protagonists, which causes Friedman to ponder. “Boys are not told the people you love will die if you leave home. If anything, boys are guilt-tripped into leaving home, to go out into the world.” Using Shakespeare’s Hamlet as an example, Friedman explains that it is a play about a man who causes tragedy because he does not choose to correct what is wrong in the world, as men are supposed to do, or as she put it, “take responsibility for the woes of the world.” By that logic, it is Hamlet’s blundering inaction that is at fault for the myriad deaths at the end of the play.

The obvious counter to that, for Friedman, is the story of The Wizard of Oz. Dorothy is told that her leaving home imperils the life of Auntie Em. The young man must take action in the world so that one can make real-world changes. “Surrendering the fantasy” of how life is supposed to be so that one can have authority in one’s real life. In short, to “surrender Oz” is to delineate between fiction and fantasy, to acknowledge the hard but real truths of the world so that one can make real-world changes.

While there is no doubt that Surrendering Oz contains intelligent, insightful observations about our society, the personal reflections of Friedman are just as powerful. In fact, while reading Surrendering Oz, one cannot help but feel as if the author has had quite some time to reflect on the significance of the events in her book. Friedman explains that the essays in it were indeed composed over a considerable amount of time: “I wrote them over many years and I didn’t visualize them coming together until quite late in writing them. When writing separate essays I felt I did need to come to some sort of conclusion in each. I wanted to press each of the events that I was writing about to yield something of significance. I write in order to make sense of my life. I don’t know what things mean until I write about them. For each essay, I did want to write from those experiences something I and others could grow from. In the act of writing you can glean something from daily life that you can carry with you. I wanted my experiences to add up to something. Only later did I have the pleasure of putting the different essays together …”

Friedman agreed that distance has contributed greatly to the emotional depth of her work. “I was a very different person over the course of writing those essays because it took me so many years. I was in a different frame of mind by the end. The act of pulling these essays together into a cogent narrative allowed me an expanded perspective.”

When she set out to write each one, she used the writing as her personal exploration of events. “I want to know something by the end of an essay that I didn’t know at the beginning. What is the understanding that I didn’t have words for at the beginning?”

It is obvious that Surrendering Oz has been expertly and lovingly developed. Friedman’s words speak with a sense of wisdom that implies a great deal of reflection on the events she writes about. “When I read the essays through, I remember where I was sitting when I wrote them. I remember sitting at a little desk in a window in Brooklyn,” Friedman says. She selects each word with the meticulousness of language as that of a poet. “I wrote them slowly, and my way of writing is more akin to a poet’s way of writing than a novelist’s. I didn’t want to saturate them with significance the way that a poet does.”

Friedman currently spends her time in Brooklyn, NY, or teaching in Texas. She talks of her students lovingly, as excited about their potential as a proud parent. Friedman travels back and forth between the two locations while caring for her two—one potentially oversized—cats. She is always writing and sharing her knowledge of the writing craft. Friedman continues to lecture on how to create a book out of a series of disparate essays—a topic she is more than qualified to speak on. Her labor of love, Surrendering Oz, was released in November 2014.

The book’s title essay “Surrendering Oz” is enough to pique one’s interest. In this essay, which was included in The Best American Movie Writing, Friedman dissected the popular classic film, The Wizard of Oz, and explores the cultural messages the film holds for young women in Western society. Friedman explains that she was drawn to examine the movie because she wanted to understand the subliminal messages about freedom and success she feels girls receive. Specifically, she didn’t understand why, when she received her first professional writing contract, a significant achievement, she was afflicted with an unexplainable inability to write. It wasn’t until she rewatched the iconic Judy Garland masterpiece that she understood her feelings.

“My observation is a significant one: although we are responsible for our behaviors, we are also members of a society that helps shape the way we think. Friedman says, “I feel strongly that when individuals can understand that their idiosyncratic-feeling problems are often the result of larger social systems in which they’re enmeshed—it’s freeing.”

So, what real world application does the phrase “Surrendering Oz” carry? Friedman says that, for her, it means “surrendering the fantasy” of how life is supposed to be so that one can have authority in one’s real life. In short, to “surrender Oz” is to delineate between fiction and fantasy, to acknowledge the hard but real truths of the world so that one can make real-world changes.

While there is no doubt that Surrendering Oz contains intelligent, insightful observations about our society, the personal reflections of Friedman are just as powerful. In fact, while reading Surrendering Oz, one cannot help but feel as if the author has had quite some time to reflect on the significance of the events in her book. Friedman explains that the essays in it were indeed composed over a considerable amount of time: “I wrote them over many years and I didn’t visualize them coming together until quite late in writing them. When writing separate essays I felt I did need to come to some sort of conclusion in each. I wanted to press each of the events that I was writing about to yield something of significance. I write in order to make sense of my life. I don’t know what things mean until I write about them. For each essay, I did want to write from those experiences something I and others could grow from. In the act of writing you can glean something from daily life that you can carry with you. I wanted my experiences to add up to something. Only later did I have the pleasure of putting the different essays together …”

Friedman agreed that distance has contributed greatly to the emotional depth of her work. “I was a very different person over the course of writing those essays because it took me so many years. I was in a different frame of mind by the end. The act of pulling these essays together into a cogent narrative allowed me an expanded perspective.”

When she set out to write each one, she used the writing as her personal exploration of events. “I want to know something by the end of an essay that I didn’t know at the beginning. What is the understanding that I didn’t have words for at the beginning?”
Accomplished writer NIN ANDREWS has supported Etruscan from the start. Through her generous donations and creative contributions, Nin has helped connect Etruscan Press to a larger writing community and spread Etruscan’s mission. She’s hosted events, read alongside Etruscan authors, increased our presence in the Youngstown community, and served as guest poetry editor. Nin introduced us to poet Tim Seibles, whose poetry collection Fast Animal was released by Etruscan in 2011. Fast Animal was nominated for a National Book Award and received the PEN Oakland Josephine Miles Award as well as the triennial Theodore Roethke Memorial Poetry Prize.

As the award-winning author of several books, Nin’s support of poetry and literature comes as no surprise. “I think people are made up of stories. We are formed and informed by these stories, connected by these stories, uplifted or saddened by these stories. Literature, whether it is poetry, fiction, or nonfiction, is, in my opinion, an outpouring of our stories, and of our essential nature.” She believes one of the main achievements of Etruscan Press is the pleasure our books provide for readers.

Nin extends her philanthropic efforts to environmental projects in Youngstown. From her expertise in poetry to her community mindset and spirit, Nin’s contributions to Etruscan are immeasurable.

BONNIE CULVER’S contributions to Etruscan include an instrumental role in helping the press find a home at Wilkes University, an affiliation that continues to this day. Bonnie has also served on the advisory board for Etruscan since its inception. Bonnie is a professor and former dean at Wilkes as well as an award-winning author and playwright. Her twenty-plus plays have been produced from NY to LA by colleges, regional theatres, and equity companies. Sniper won the New Jersey Arts Council Perry Award for Excellence in the Production of an Original Play followed by a first class equity showcase at Center Stage, NYC, in 2005. In 2006, Sniper was included in the Florida Studio Theatre’s Richard and Betty Burdick National Playwriting Reading series. Three of her screenplays were finalists in the Sundance Film Development program. Marlee Matlin’s Solo One Production company optioned Rainbow Man. Last year three of her one-acts plays were produced in Virginia. She is the director/co-founder of the Wilkes low-residency M.A./M.F.A. programs, a member of the Dramatists Guild, the Author’s League of America, the National Council of Teachers of English and the Association for Theatre in Higher Education and president of the Association of Writers and Writing Programs’ national board of trustees.

Designer LAURIE POWERS got her start in graphic design and newspaper publishing and later expanded her career to feature film animation and visual effects. She received her MFA in Creative Writing from Wilkes University in 2013.

Designer CAREY SCHWARTZBURT resides in Savannah, GA with her husband Joseph and son Gavin. She enjoys staying busy with her freelance design business, Yelo Creations, which specializes in hand-crafted invitations and stationary as well as branding and advertising for print and digital media.
Etruscan Press is proud of support received from
Wilkes University
Youngstown State University
The Stephen and Jeryl Oristaglio Foundation
The Ohio Arts Council
The Nathalie and James Andrews Foundation
The National Endowment for the Arts
Dr. Barbara Brothers & Gratia Murphy Endowment
The Rayen Foundation
The Pella Corporation

SUBSCRIBE TO ETRUSCAN PRESS

Celebrate over ten years of quality literature, distinctive in voice and nurturing dialogue among genres by becoming a subscribing member to Etruscan Press. You can subscribe to Etruscan Press by visiting:

www.etruscanpress.org or by emailing books@etruscanpress.org.

As a Subscribing Member you will receive a copy of each of the new releases for the next two seasons. Each new release will be mailed before it is available in stores. Yearly Subscription for 2015 Spring and Fall Seasons: $70

Subscription Titles

Spring 2015
Poems and Their Making: A Conversation, Anthology
The Other Sky, Bruce Bond/Aron Wiesenfeld

Fall 2015
Arcadia Road: A Trilogy, Theorpe Moeckel
Crave: Sojourn of a Hungry Soul, Laurie Jean Cannady
American Anger: An Evidentiary, H. L. Hix

DONATE TO ETRUSCAN PRESS

Etruscan Press is a 501c3 nonprofit organization and can exist only through the support of readers like you — those interested in sustaining the work of independent presses publishing quality literature. We ask you to join and support our mission.

“I hear America singing, her varied carols I hear.”
—Walt Whitman

Nothing attested, everything sung, writes Etruscan poet H. L. Hix, echoing Walt. Since our first release, September 11, 2001: American Writers Respond, Etruscan writers have sung a resonant chorus of poetry, fiction, creative nonfiction, and literary criticism.

People have taken notice. Three of our 56 titles have been finalists for the National Book Award. Etruscan books have won honors from the Poetry Society of America and ForeWord Magazine. We’ve been in Best American Poetry and on Garrison Keillor’s show. We’ve partnered with The National Endowment for the Arts, Wilkes University, and Youngstown State University. Our Educational Outreach Program brings new literature to thousands of at-risk students.

We ask you to join Etruscan’s varied carols. Help us continue to show what an independent, non-profit literary press can do: orchestrate the literary music of authors not often heard in the mainstream. Help us show that books matter because they sing, not because of a bottom line.

Come join our swelling chorus. Please make a tax-deductible contribution today.

Make a donation today by check or by credit card. Visit our website and click the “Donate” tab. For check payments, email books@etruscanpress.org.

CONTACT US

Please contact us regarding our programs or to learn more about Etruscan Press.

For more information or a prospectus:

Website: www.etruscanpress.org
Email: books@etruscanpress.org
Phone: (570) 408-4546

Etruscan Press 2014 Highlights

• Named one of five finalists for the 2015 Small Press Publisher Award by the Association of Writers and Writing Programs
• Remica Bingham’s What We Ask of Flesh named finalist for Hurston/Wright Legacy Award in Poetry
• Diane Seibol’s American Amnesic named finalist for Housatonic Book Award in Poetry
• Tim Seibles’ Fast Animal (2012 NBA Finalist and 2013 PEN Oakland Josephine Miles Award winner) honored with the triennial Theodore Roethke Memorial Poetry Prize
• Etruscan Prize awarded to Ahmed Tarey of Baton Rouge, LA for his poem Tropic Cascade (judged by Etruscan author Remica Bingham)
• Two Little Free Libraries planted at community centers in Youngstown, OH
• Continued Outreach Program in partnership with Youngstown State University Poetry Center featuring East High Early College, Choffin Career Center, Park Vista Retirement Home, and the YSU Incarcerated Student Program
• Executive Director Philip Brady wins Ohio Governor’s Award in Arts Education

Etruscan Press is a 501c3 nonprofit organization and can exist only through the support of readers like you — those interested in sustaining the work of independent presses publishing quality literature. We ask you to join and support our mission.

“I hear America singing, her varied carols I hear.”
—Walt Whitman

Nothing attested, everything sung, writes Etruscan poet H. L. Hix, echoing Walt. Since our first release, September 11, 2001: American Writers Respond, Etruscan writers have sung a resonant chorus of poetry, fiction, creative nonfiction, and literary criticism.

People have taken notice. Three of our 56 titles have been finalists for the National Book Award. Etruscan books have won honors from the Poetry Society of America and ForeWord Magazine. We’ve been in Best American Poetry and on Garrison Keillor’s show. We’ve partnered with The National Endowment for the Arts, Wilkes University, and Youngstown State University. Our Educational Outreach Program brings new literature to thousands of at-risk students.

We ask you to join Etruscan’s varied carols. Help us continue to show what an independent, non-profit literary press can do: orchestrate the literary music of authors not often heard in the mainstream. Help us show that books matter because they sing, not because of a bottom line.

Come join our swelling chorus. Please make a tax-deductible contribution today.

Make a donation today by check or by credit card. Visit our website and click the “Donate” tab. For check payments, email books@etruscanpress.org.